

MORMON SEATED IN NEW SENATE.

No Objection Made to Smoot from Utah, and He Subscribed to the Oath with an Emphatic "I Do."

THIRTEEN NEW SENATORS.

Brilliant Gathering Present at Opening of the Extra Session—Flowers in Abundance for Those Who Took Their Seats To-Day.

WASHINGTON, March 5.—The United States Senate met at noon to-day in special session called by the President. It was an interesting event, as such sessions do not usually occur except when a President of the United States is inaugurated into office. At the beginning of each new Congress—and to-day was the first session of the Senate of the Fifty-eighth Congress—the oath was administered to thirty Senators, who take office for six years. There were thirteen new Senators, although one, Mr. Gorman, had previously served eighteen years in the Senate.

The new Senators are: Ankeny (Wash.), Clarke (Ark.), Fulton (Ore.), Gorman (Md.), Heyburn (Idaho), Hopkins (Ill.), Latimer (S. C.), Long (Kans.), McCleary (Ky.), Newlands (Nev.), Overman (N. C.), Smoot (Utah) and Stone (Mo.).

The Senate being a continuous body, its officers hold until their successors are chosen; so promptly at noon the body was called to order by President Theodore Roosevelt.

The galleries were filled at an early hour, and in the family and reserved galleries were friends and relatives of the new Senators. The desks of the new Senators could be distinguished by the wealth of flowers which had been provided. The lavishment of the admirers was shown by the fact that desks and even chairs in some instances were completely buried under huge floral bouquets and beautiful bouquets.

As soon as the Senate was called to order Mr. Hoar obtained unanimous consent to make a statement for Mr. Furrow, Chairman of the Committee on Privileges and Elections.

Mr. Hoar's statement was supposed to have reference to Mr. Smoot, but he did not mention him. It was to the effect that any man having credentials could be sworn in.

Mr. Smoot subsequently presented himself and subscribed to the oath with an emphatic "I do."

No protest was made and he was seated.

After the swearing in of the Senators the message was read from President Roosevelt and read:

"I have called the Senate in extraordinary session to consider the treaties concerning which it proved impossible to take action during the session of Congress just ended. The fact that special attention to the treaty with the Republic of Colombia, securing to the United States the right to build an inter-oceanic canal and to the treaty with the Republic of Cuba for securing a measure of commercial reciprocity between the two countries."

The great and far-reaching importance of these two treaties to the welfare of the United States and the urgent need for their adoption requires me to propose upon you the inconvenience of meeting at this time.

(Signed) THEODORE ROOSEVELT.

Senator Tillman claimed attention by replying to Congressman Cannon's speech on the Panama Canal appropriation. Mr. Tillman denounced the speech as "indiscreet, indecent and an outrage."

The dignity of the Senate and his own individual honor were involved, he claimed.

ROOSEVELT AGAIN NOMINATES CRUM

Senate Will Be Asked to Confirm Appointment of Colored Collector at Charleston.

WASHINGTON, March 5.—The President will send to the Senate to-day the nomination of W. D. Crum, colored, to be Collector of the Port of Charleston, S. C. This will be the second nomination of Crum, the Senate at the session just closed having failed to confirm him.

The nomination of Dr. Crum was reported adversely by the Senate Commerce Committee of the Fifty-seventh Congress. His re-nomination will be referred to the same committee, but owing to changes in the personnel of that body the President expects a favorable report upon it.

It is understood to be the President's intention not to exercise special influence to secure favorable action on the nomination. In the event of its rejection by the Senate it is unlikely that the appointment will be renewed. It is simply the desire of the President to have a vote of the Senate on the nomination. He thinks the appointee is entitled to that.

ALBANY SENDS BILLS.

The second batch of five city bills passed by the Legislature was received by the Mayor to-day. All are of minor importance, excepting the one which amends section 1064 of the charter, changing the general school funds from its present rate of 4 to 8 mills. This reduction is permissible by reason of the increased assessments to the 100 per cent valuation figure. At the rate of 8 mills, it is explained, the school fund will be greater this year than last.

These bills provide for changing the name of the Albany City Hospital; to allow the Fire Commissioners to investigate the fire insurance companies; to fix the compensation for the acquisition by the city of property in the new Williamsburgh bridge.

On the morning of the bills take place the Mayor's office.

"I HAVE NO FEAR," SAYS MRS. PAINE.

that experiments have been made to ascertain whether a noise on the first floor of Burdick's home could be heard on the second floor. Chief Cusack says that it is impossible to hear any noise or disturbance on lower floors beyond the rooms in which they are made.

Chief Cusack was asked to-day: "How soon will you take some one in custody?"

"I can't say. My experience has taught me that arrests may be made at any time."

"With the information collected by the detectives will an arrest be made?"

"I suppose there will be one."

SURE IT WAS A WOMAN.

"Are you still of the opinion that a woman committed the deed?"

"A woman did it or she played a prominent part in it."

Superintendent of Police Bull admitted that an arrest in the case is in prospect, but declined to be specific in his talk.

Why such a complete search of a certain house in the Elmwood District was made by the police in connection with the Burdick murder appears to be explained by the fact that a letter was taken from a drawer in a desk at the head of the couch upon which the dead man was found. That this particular letter furnished the motive for the murder was practically admitted by Chief of Detectives Cusack to-day.

When the detectives reached the house after the tragedy the open drawer in the desk attracted their attention. They were assured by inmates of the house that the drawer was open when the body was found, and had not been touched since. In the drawer was found a jumble of letters and papers and odds and ends; on the floor directly beneath the drawer were more papers. The detectives concluded that the murderer knew that Burdick kept a letter in this desk that was desired, and that after he was dead the desk was rifled.

Whether or not the lock had been forced the police will not say, but they are convinced that the murderer got off with the coveted letter. The recovery of such a letter in the house of a suspected person would furnish a link connecting that person with the crime, upon which an arrest could be based, and this explains the thorough search.

The woman whose name is on every lip in connection with the mysterious murder of Edwin L. Burdick is Mrs. Gertrude Paine, wife of Seth T. Paine. The police are guarding her house, and two sleuths in plain clothes are on duty night and day before it. She has not left her residence since the day of the murder.

The fact that her photograph was found in Mr. Burdick's den; the fact that her house has been searched from cellar to garret by the police; the fact that she talked with Burdick over the telephone on the afternoon preceding the murder—all these combine to make her the central figure in one of the most sensational and mysterious murders that has ever come under the observation of the police.

Whether or not Mrs. Paine is the suspect whom the police have in mind is a question that has not yet been made clear. But it is certain that a jealous woman, driven to insanity by rage, jealousy or despair, was the murderer of Edwin L. Burdick. And the woman—a few hours may reveal her name to the world. She may be dragged from her luxurious home to the terrifying solitude of the prison cell.

Society may be shocked and astounded at the revelations the police will make of the relations between Edwin L. Burdick and the woman whose frenzied strength enabled her to batter his skull. The den was spattered with the blood of the murdered man. The clothing of the woman who killed him must carry blotches of life fluid that will bear witness against her.

suspicious of Burdick. She stayed on and on, pleading to be with him for the last time.

ANOTHER CASE OF "JUST SEE ME ONCE MORE."

The man tired and dozed off on his divan. The woman's time had come. She glanced about for a weapon. The bag of golf sticks stood in the corner. Seizing one, she swung it on the sleeping man's head. He stirred and groaned. Frenzied fear possessed her. He might recover and seize her. Blow after blow she showered upon the bleeding skull until at last, fainting from her exertions, she ceased. The man lay white and still. She hurried to a desk in the room.

Hastily opening the drawers she searched for her letters. While thus engaged a noise startled her. She gazed toward the divan. The head of the dead man had rolled to one side and the glazed eyes were staring accusingly. With an exclamation of horror she jumped up and, seizing rugs and sofa pillows, she heaped them about the dead man's head and body to shut out the horrid sight. Then she finished her search. Calmly she went to the front door and out into the night. Not a soul saw her leave the house.

This is the picture the police have drawn of the happenings in Edwin Burdick's house on the night he was murdered. But the name of the woman who, in her awful rage and terror, crushed in the head of the man she once wooed with tender caresses, they have not yet disclosed.

The police are still trying to get Mrs. Warren to make a statement that may reveal this woman evidently, and have enlisted the services of the Cleveland police in their effort to succeed.

COL. MARCEAU WEDS DIXIE GIRL

Well-Known Art Photographer Gives His Friends a Great Surprise by Taking Southern Beauty for His Bride.

DIVORCED FIRST WIFE.

She Fled with Child and He Pursued Her Thousands of Miles in an Effort to Get Possession of the Little One.

Col. Theodore Marceau, the Fifth avenue photographer who figured in a sensational pursuit of his divorced wife who had kidnapped their child several years ago, was one of the principals in a rather romantic marriage in his studio yesterday when a Supreme Court Justice tied the bonds that changed the name of Miss Grace Fuson, a beautiful young Southern girl, to Marceau.

The meeting of the Colonel and the young Southern beauty is shrouded in mystery, not even the artist's intimate friends having had any knowledge of their acquaintance.

All that is known of the bride is that she recently left a convent and is an accomplished musician and singer.

Those in charge of the studio at No. 233 Fifth avenue, were surprised day before yesterday when they were instructed to decorate the rooms with flowers and ferns and give it as much as possible a gala appearance.

The Colonel did not give the slightest hint as to the reason for these preparations until yesterday, when a hansom drove up to the door and the bride and bridegroom-elect, accompanied by a Supreme Court Justice, descended and hurried up to the embowered studio. A hasty ceremony was performed, and after a toast had been drunk to the married pair they drove away as mysteriously as they had come.

It was learned that the pair, after spending the night in a hotel in this city, went to Atlantic City, where they will spend their honeymoon.

Col. Marceau was married on July 9, 1891, in Santa Cruz, Cal., to Mrs. Amanda J. Fizke, formerly the wife of John D. Fizke, a leading real estate operator and proprietor of an opera-house in Fresno, Cal.

She was considered at one time the most beautiful woman in California. Their married life was not a happy one, and several years later the photographer secured a divorce and the custody of his child, Theodore, who is now eight years of age.

Marceau was carried on to the possession of the child, which was interrupted by an exciting kidnapping and pursuit in special trains across hundreds of miles of territory.
